OLD CURIOSITY SHOP MAN DEAD John H, Nicklin, who kept a secondhand store at Park row and Pearl street, New York, died suddenly of apoplexy on Tuesday afternoon. The store's brass sign bears the inscription, "Nicklin's Old Curiosity Shop." In giving legal account of his business Nicklin called it "hardware." There was everything in the place. A man tried to stump Nicklin once and asked for a coffin in a a burry.

"Do you mean business, friend?" asked Nicklin. "Do you really want to buy a coffin?" "Of course I do," said the customer.

"I have a very nice broadcloth-covered coffin," said Nicklin, "that I will sell you for $15. It is behind that box ou are sitting on."

So it was, with every conceivable arcle of human manufacture. Persion idals, new model Colt's revolvers, queer flisks of Russian copper and greasy second-hand packs of cards were heapd together indiscriminately. Nicklin arried his inventory in his head. It was perfect. He knew to a batpin just what he had in the store, what he paid for each article, and what he would sell t for. If a prospective customer didn't ant to bry at Nicklin's price then he might as easily save his breath and go without it as to haggle. Nicklin wouldn't listen to him very long. When the customer had talked a ime that seemed to Nicklin to have -a i-fied the requirements of hospitality, Nicklin would put him out on the sidewalk.

Nicklin had no regular hours of keeping the shop open. Sometimes he would take the shutters down at sunrise. Sometimes the place would be closed as tight as Sunday until nearly noon. He would take a notion often that he was tired.

"Willie," he would say to his son, who helped him to run the store, "close up." And the two would bundle everybody out into the street and lock the doors. Nicklin had a full, white beard and a warm, gentle smile. He liked to chat for hours with his customers about the oddities and whims of other customers. He told his stories well. and there was no end to their variety He came to this country in 1859 from Scotland, when he was 29 years old. He is said to have left a wife and son in the old country. He got a divorce from his second wife six years ago after a trial that created much amusement. City Magistrate John Mott was his counsel. He had two children by this wife. One, Annie, is married to a prosperous Bowery merchant. The other, Johany, died when a child.

A few years ago a young man named Wm. Nicklin came from Scotland and was greeted by Nicklin as his son. When his father died yesterday William immediately closed the store, and crowd stood about and watched the plank shutters until dark.

MISS CISNEROS TO MARRY .- A dis patch from Richmond says: "It is rumored here that Miss Evangelina Cisperos is to marry a wealthy Cubar very soon, and that the wedding will take place at General Lee's residence in R.chmond." Inquiry at the resi-dence of G-neral Lee, last night, elicit ed the information that the marriage was not to take place at Gen. Lee's residence, and that the members of Gen. Lee's family knew nothing of such a marriage.

The gentleman whom Miss Cisneros is to wed is Mr. Carlos Carbonel, the former Cuban banker, who was yester-day nominated by President McKinley to be a lieutenant and side on the staff
